Chamber introduces new official city post card

Post card reflects old and new in Lemon Grove

The new Lemon Grove post cards are here! The new cards, commissioned by the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, feature a 1908 lemon crate label, the historical 1895 Sunset View Ranch House, the trolley and reconstructed train depot , and the Lemon Grove lemon in its new location.

The chamber decided to create a new post card that better reflected the changes in Lemon grove after they sold out of the older-model post card.

Pete Smith of Viewfinders photography became involved in the project, photographing the various scenes and designing the layout of the card. The Chamber approved Smith's design and with the City's agreement to purchase 500 post cards to help finance the project, a new image of Lemon Grove was created.

The new post cards can be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce for 50¢. The slightly higher price is due to the card being double the size of a regular post card. Merchants can puchase the post cards in bulk through the Chamber.

City Council adopts ordinances

The Lemon Grove City Council held a brief meeting Tuesday night in which they adopted the 1988 uniform fire code, administrative code, building code, dangerous building code, sign code, plumbing code, housing code, mechanical code and the 1987 edition of the national electrical code.

The council also voted to become a member of the San Diego City Legislative Coalition whose purpose is to provide an additional review of pending legislation that might have an impact on San Diego County and/or the cities in San Diego County. It is the goal of the Legislative coalition to develop a legislative strategy in order to be able to respond quickly to legislation that is introduced that might be adverse to the interest of cities in San Diego. The City of Lemon Grove was the only city that was not a member of the coalition.

Of final interest, the Fire Department showed off its new fire truck to the council. The lights were flashing and the ladder moving on the new truck imported from Illinois. It will replace a 30-year-old fire truck.

Historical buffs join seniors

The regular meeting of the Lemon Grove Historical Society will be held Thursday March 1st at the new Senior Center on Mt. Vernon St. Members and guests will dine with the seniors at 11:30, with the general meeting immediately after (approximately 12:30). Those interested in attending must call the center for a lunch reservation, 460-0430. Cost is determined by age with $2.55 being the highest charge.

The Society looks forward to discussing Lemon Grove's history with those not able to attend the meetings usually held in the library and garnering any interesting facts about the past the seniors may offer.

Farewell to Miss Lemon Grove 1989

by Lisa Parsons

The crowning of a new Miss Lemon Grove is eminent and Becki Battleson's reign is drawing to an end. As she looks back on her busy year, she says with a plaintive sigh, "I'm sad it's over. I'll really miss it."

Becki describes her year as Miss Lemon Grove as full of fun, new friends, community functions, parades and competitions.

"I did a lot of ribbon cuttings," says Becki, "Lemon Grove Plaza, Evan's Tire, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Color Me Beautiful... (with Lemon Grove's revitalization efforts) there were so many this year it's hard to remember."

The opening of the trolley is one of the events that stands out in Becki's mind. "That was really neat. To me, that seems like a real part of history. It was the opening of the trolley here, in Lemon Grove, and I got to cut the ribbon. It was very exciting."

The Lakeside Parade is also special to Becki because she rode her own horse in the parade. "That was really interesting because normally it's 'Beauty Queen in a Car' and when you do that, people don't normally pay attention to you, but when I rode my horse in the Lakeside Parade, people said, 'Hey, she's on a horse. That's really neat.' The kids loved it and the parade is for kids."

Winning Miss Lemon Grove made Becki eligible to compete in several pageants around the county including Fairest of the Fair, Greater San Diego, and Camel Grand Prix. "Fairest of the Fair was the most stressful thing I've ever done," she says, "because there was so much hype and it was only the second competition I'd ever been in."

She fared much better in later pageants and succeeded in being crowned Miss Camel Grand Prix. "I wouldn't have gotten to do Miss Camel Grand Prix if it hadn't been for Miss Lemon Grove," Becki says. "I wouldn't have had the confidence. Everything I've done since then, I base from Miss Lemon Grove."

It wasn't easy for Becki to become Miss Lemon Grove--she competed in the pageant for five years before she won. "I kept coming back every year because I learned every year and it was worth it," she says emphatically.

Pageant status in jeopardy

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce is desperately seeking at least three more young ladies to compete in the Miss Lemon Grove pageant and has extended its application deadline to February 28.

Applicants must be 18-22 years of age (or 17 and a senior in high school) with good moral character, unmarried and a resident of Lemon Grove. Contestants will be judged on the basis of a one-on-one interview in adddition to the evening gown and sportswear competition featured at the pageant.

This year's Miss Lemon Grove, Becki Battleson, said she thinks a lot of people are reluctant to compete for the title because they believe it will be an expensive venture, but this isn't true. "The people of Lemon Grove were great about sponsoring me. The donations I received really helped cut the costs."

Without seven contestants, the new Miss Lemon Grove will not be eligible for the Fairest of the Fair contest at the Del Mar Fair and that would be terrible, concluded Battleson.

Applications are available at the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce (469-9621) and Color Me Beautiful (463-3136).

Yes, Virginia, the Review is alive!

Many people have been wondering what is happening with the Lemon Grove Review, what our plans are for the future and if our offices are still open. Our offices are still located at 7834 Lester, but because we no longer print the paper on the premises, the building is mostly empty and we are looking for smaller office space. The mornings are the best time to catch someone in at the office and we would like to hear from you.

Max Goodwin is planning to rent or lease the building and he can still be found at his desk. However when the building is leased, Max plans to travel throughout the county and pursue his other interests. He will no longer be writing a weekly column for the Review, but has said he may contibute occasionally when a hot issue catches his interest and he cannot keep silent.

The Senior class is leading the school's class competitions held to promote school spirit with a score of 260 points. Sophomores are second with 255, Juniors, third with 190 and the Freshmen have 100.

El Trovador, Mt. Miguel's newspaper, will have a new staff for the month of March as the Cub Staff take over for one issue under the Leadership of their own Editor-in-Chief, Michael Holmes.

Staff members of El Trovador will be participating in the San Diego County Writeoffs to be held at Mt. Carmel High School on Saturday, March 10th. This competition invites students from all 60 school newspapers to compete in writing news, features, sports, editorials and cartoons. Also the newspapers are judged and rated for their professionalism.

Litter lasts a long time before decomposing

From the National Park Service

When you see litter anywhere, keep these time frames in mind. Litter cleanup in our National Parks alone costs the taxpayer in excess of $15 million a year.

Paper decomposes in 2 to 5 months.
Orange peels disappear in 6 month.
Milk cartons may last more than 5 years.
Filter tips from cigarettes last 10 to 12 years.
Most plastic bags hang in there from 10 to 20 years.
Leather shoes recycle in 25 to 40 years.
Nylon fabric blows in the wind from 50 to 80 years.
Plastic containers last from 50 to 80 years.
Aluminum cans are unsightly litter for a century.
Glass shards and plastic foam are an eyesore forever.

Is this the heritage we leave the twenty-first century? We must support our own cities' beautification and anti-litter programs, encourage enforcement of anti-litter regulations and set the example for others.

"The fifth year was my year. Everything just clicked."

Becki's spirit of determination and perseverance are reflected throughout her life. In addition to her duties as Miss Lemon Grove and Miss Camel Grand Prix, she is a full time student at San Diego State University, majoring in sociology and minoring in animal science, and a sales associate at Eddie Bauer in Horton Plaza. In her spare time she helps at a horse stable cleaning up, works as a horseback riding teachers aide, is a counselor for her church's senior high and competes in pageants.

This Friday Becki will be competing in the Greater San Diego pageant which, if she wins, would qualify her for Miss California. As far as her chances for winning go, she says, "We'll see. I'm just going to go and do the best I can. I've worked the hardest I can and I'm happy with what I've done. If it's my night and everything's right for me it will happen and if it's not, then it's someone else's night. I'll just try again next year."

Becki's other plans for the future include law school. "I'll be graduating from state in December and it's my dream to go to Georgetown University's Law School in Washington D.C."

She said her year as Miss Lemon Grove has been a great experience for her and that the "people of Lemon Grove have been wonderful. I really felt that they liked me--I hope they did. I definitely liked them."

Becki Battleson, 1989 Miss Lemon Grove

Becki's final duty as Miss Lemon Grove is to plan this year's pageant and help prepare this years young ladies for the contest, but she does have one last wish before she gives up her crown. "I hope I get to cut the ribbon for In 'N' Out," she says, "I called to ask when they were having their ceremony and they said it would be in a couple of months. I've got my fingers crossed that it will be before March 9."

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

Jack Murphy is in good hands

"Tear up the beautiful sodded playing field of the Jack Murphy Stadium?" Well that's what it looked like in the T.V. ads for the upcoming motorcycle and off-road vehicle events. I was concerned for the home playground of our beloved San Diego Padres and Chargers and if there would be any waste of our tax dollars. I had to know more so I made some phone calls to find out who to interview, "the biggest that knew the most."

Through the courteous assistance of Officer Richard Pence from the Pinkerton Security Company at the stadium, I was able to interview the right people and obtain all the information needed to more than explain the procedure used for such events.

Officer Pence jumped into my van with me and under his directions we drove down the stadium ramp and right out onto the playing field. "How about that for service?"

After my thanks to Officer Pence, his only reply was, "It's just part of my job to be of help."

The tremendous job of grounds preparation was in charge of the most gracious Mr. Irwin (Sonny) Rosa, superintendent for the Jim Kitchens Company of Oklahoma. The Jim Kitchens Company prepares competition arenas all over the country for like events.

Before the 18 inches of the special dirt is placed on top of the entire 3.4 acres of playing field: a layer of plastic material goes on first, then a double layer of 3/4 inch plywood sheets, and finally another plastic over the plywood. Mr. Rosa said, "For this hard work we needed "A Few Good Men" so we hired 30 United States Marines form the Weapons Training Detachment from Camp Pendleton.

After all the green grass is carefully covered, big trucks haul in the sandy-clay soil from the nearby stadium's stockpile. It is then spread a foot and a half deep over the plastic cover with skip loaders and other heavy equipment. A dam or curb is placed around the dirt area to keep it all in place. The entire project, including the racing course, according to Mickey Thompson's specs, takes less than five days.

When the gala one night stand is over, the roaring crowds have departed, and our giant Jack Murphy Stadium is once again silent, the laborious job of putting the field back to "like before condition" starts. This four day procedure is exactly the same only in reverse but with less enthusiasm because it is now "After the Show" just like any other project.

Mr. Rosa said, "The Jim Kitchens Company guarantees that the field will be left in "as good as or better" condition than before and is backed up with a million dollar plus assurance bond." He also stated, "Most all the big stadiums are going to astroturf, which is much easier for us to clean up."

After personally witnessing the "Great Cover-up" and the assurance from the "Head Guys" that our most beautiful green sod would look fresher than ever, I drove my van up the ramp and headed for home.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Next order of baseball business

Sometime in the very near future, perhaps between the writing of this tale and the reading of it, the baseball lockout will be over.

Baseball moguls will have decided they are losing ground trying to out bluff the very well organized players and their legal council; as solid a bunch of jurist Johns as one is likely to find this side of the Supreme Court.

The demands made so importantly just a few weeks ago-the revenue sharing, the pay cap and the computer score type payment system for players with less than 6 years of service- one might have thought they were chiseled in granite.

They all seem to have been set aside and replaced by such hardball items as player arbitration, medical and pension benefits and the 24-man roster.

Cool heads, working with a will to succeed, may solve these issues, or place them on a holding pattern to be decided by mutual consent under considerably less stress, could get the spring training camps open before the ink dries on the bargaining agreement.

It could happen any time. The only tough nut left to crack is what to give in on to let the owners saved face. They gotta win on something. Maybe the owners will force a 25th player back on the major league playing roster. That will help them, too.

The very next order of meaningful business for baseball moguls and Commissioner Fay Vincent is expansion.

Cities and their affluent fathers from far and near have been clamoring to enter the major leagues at almost any cost. And expansion has been promised as kind of a torch of hope to these solid sons of wealth and privilege, just as soon as that nasty labor agreement was settled.

In a nutshell, the National League is supposed to expand by a pair of teams in the near future. Then, after a decent time in which teams hit by the expansion draft can regain their health, both leagues will expand by an additional pair.

The top leading contenders for immediate expansion seem to be Buffalo, where a million patrons rang the turnstiles last year, and Tampa-St. Petersburg, where the population is pushing the gulf back into the sea.

Then there is always New Orleans, with population and an air conditioned playing site. And, of course, someone has to take Washington, D.C.

Out in the west, the battle seems to be between Denver and Phoenix. And that's only the Southern 48. Vancouver has an oar in the expansion waters and the population to give it momentum.

With so much expansion, it might behoove baseball moguls to expand the rosters to 28 or 30 players to provide players with at least a little major league experience to the series of upcoming expansion drafts.

So get on with it, Commissioner Vincent. Time's a-wasting. Let's get the spring training camps open and the players out on the grass where they can make the entire owner mogulship even richer in the years to come.

SAFE call box network becomes a reality

The East County segment of the SAFE call box network took a giant step toward completion with the recent installation of cellular repeater sites on Los Pinos and White Star mountaintops.

The installation of the repeater sites is the culmination of two years of effort on the part of the network's governing agency, the Service Authority for Freeway Emergencies (SAFE), to gain permit rights to the two remote East County locations, according to SAFE Executive Director Granville M. Bowman.

The mountaintop repeater sites, for the first time, establish cellular service in the eastern region of the county.

"This is a very gratifying accomplishment for everyone involved with the SAFE call box network," Bowman said. "Operation of these repeater facilities is absolutely necessary to pick up signals from call boxes currently being installed along the mountainous regions of Interstate 8."

SAFE currently operates over 1,000 call boxes along freeways throughout San Diego County. Using the U.S. West Cellular network, the solar powered, cellular phones are linked directly to California Highway Patrol dispatchers which allow motorists to access police, fire, paramedic and emergency roadside services.

GTE Cellular Communications Corporation is expected to complete call box installation in East County this summer. When the project is complete, call boxes at one-half mile intervals will extend to the Imperial County line.

The average cost of the boxes is $3,200 each, which is funded by a one dollar service charge on all County residents' vehicle registrations. When the East County segment is complete, SAFE will operate over 1,200 call boxes.

An "unbagging" ceremony is planned for the project's completion to mark the SAFE board's accomplishment in providing call box service to stranded motorists in rugged East County. The ceremony will also dedicate the completion of the call box network throughout San Diego County.

The SAFE board is composed of representatives from the both the County and city governments and is chaired by Leon L. Williams, Chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

San Diego Water Authority to conduct turf audits

A San Diego County Water Authority pilot turf audit project that is expected to serve as a model for future programs in California gained funding today from the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California (MWD) board of directors.

The San Diego Turf Audit Project is designed to demonstrate the effectiveness of turf audits in conserving water. It will be closely followed throughout the state because extensive evaluation of the results is planned. The project is the first major turf audit program of its kind featuring detailed follow-up to be implemented in MWD's service area, which covers 5,200 square miles in Southern California.

The MWD directors approved spending $92,500, or half the estimated $185,000 cost of the project's first year of operation.

The rest of the funding will come from the Water Authority ($57,500) and the Greater Mountain Empire Resource Conservation District ($35,000).

The Metropolitan board also agreed to cover half of the estimated $90,000 cost of the pilot program's final six months.

Turf audits are designed to improve the efficiency of irrigation systems in large turf-grass areas such as golf courses, parks and cemeteries.

An audit team analyzes the soil and turf in the area, checks the sprinkler timing system, examines and evaluates the existing irrigation equipment and feeds the information into a computer software program. Based on its findings, the team recommends changes to make the system more efficient.

Turf audits are being conducted throughout California, but usually the results are neither monitored nor studied, said Bill Jacoby, an water resources specialist with the Authority.

"After we do the turf audits, we'll stick by the people we work with and make sure the recommendations are followed," Jacoby said. "I don't know of any turf audit program that will be so closely monitored."

The Authority has been involved with turf audits for the past two years, spending $25,000 annually to support an audit team operated in the North County by the Mission Resource Conservation District.

The new project will fund two more audit teams, one in the North County and one in the south, as well as providing for follow-up services.

The project is scheduled to run on a pilot basis from April 1, 1990, through September 30, 1991. At that point, the results will be studied and a decision will be made about continuation of the program.

The Metropolitan Water District's funding of the project comes through the agency's Conservation Credits Program, which provides financial support to MWD's member agencies for programs that reduce demand for water supplied by MWD.

Foiling the purse snatcher

Purse snatching, one of San Diego's top-five most common street crimes, can often be avoided by taking simple precautionary measures, according to The Crime Victims Fund.

"Purse snatching is a crime of opportunity--the victim, through a lack of awareness, provides the thief with the opportunity to commit a crime," says Elly Adler, Fund Board Chairman. "By becoming aware of precautions, women can greatly reduce the risk of being victimized."

The Crime Victims Fund suggests several personal protection tips which include:

*Carry shoulder strap purses and keep one hand on the strap.

*Carry clutch purses upside down so that everything will fall out if grabbed.

*When possible, Carry wallet, keys, and other valuables in a suitable place other than the purse.

*Carry only those credit cards you will be using.

*When shopping, place your purse in a shopping bag.

*If you must leave your purse in a car, hide it under the seat.

*Shop with a friend when possible.

"It is also important to maintain a record of account numbers at home in case you are victimized," said Adler.

"There are several definite 'don'ts' to remember when carrying a purse," Adler added. "Don't carry large amounts of money; don't carry unnecessary valuables in your purse; don't let your purse hang loosely in your hand; and never leave your purse in plain view while at the office."

According to Adler, the purse snatcher is usually a young male under eighteen years of age. He usually approaches his victim from behind, catching her off guard in a hit-run manner. The culprit usually strikes a person who is walking home, to or from her car, or who is waiting for transportation while standing in public.

"He might even ask for the time or directions to make you feel more at ease, drop your guard, or preoccupy you," Adler added.

The Crime Victims Fund provides direct and prompt financial assistance to victims and is headquartered in the Gaslamp Court building, 739 Fifth Avenue. Individuals seeking information or wishing to make a donation can phone 238-1988.

Academy Award Predictions and Commentary

Every year when the Academy Award nominations are announced, I usually put on a black arm band, start hanging around at funeral parlors and carry huge signs which read "The End of the World is Near!"--such is my depression. But this year I can honestly say that the Academy has done well, and with my approval I have no need for black clothes and wailing. Oscar is no longer a grouch and so I fulfill yet another film critic requirement by presenting commentary predictions: Oscar 1990.

Let's begin with the Best Director category. The nominees are: Oliver Stone, "Born on the Fourth of July;" Woody Allen, "Crimes and Misdemeanors;" Peter Weir, "Dead Poets Society;" Kenneth Branagh, "Henry V;" and Jim Sheridan, "My Left Foot." If I had my way, the award would go to Kenneth Branagh who created a powerful and masterful interpretation of Shakespeare's classic. But the award will probably go to Oliver Stone. Judging by the hype surrounding "Born on the Fourth of July's" Golden Globe Awards, the film society seems captivated by Stone's Vietnam epics.

Best Supporting Actress--Brenda Fricker, "My Left Foot;" Anjelica Huston, "Enemies: A Love Story;" Lena Olin, "Enemies: A Love Story;" Julia Roberts, "Steel Magnolias;" and Dianne Wiest, "Parenthood." My choice would be Dianne Wiest, a great actress in a great role, but I have a feeling the Oscar may go to Julia Roberts. I really don't know why Hollywood has gone so crazy about her, she's a good actress... but not that good.

Best Supporting Actor--Danny Aiello, "Do the Right Thing;" Dan Akroyd, "Driving Miss Daisy;" Marlon Brando, "A Dry White Season;" Martin Landau, "Crimes and Misdemeanors;" Denzel Washington, "Glory." I would love for Akroyd or Landau to get it, they both gave truly inspired performances. The Oscar will go to Denzel Washington though, and he was excellent too.

Best Actress-- Isabelle Adjani, "Camille Claudel;" Pauline Collins, "Shirley Valentine;" Jessica Lange, "Music Box;" Michelle Pfeiffer, "The Fabulous Baker Boys;" Jessica Tandy, "Driving Miss Daisy." I want the brilliant Jessica Tandy to win and I'm sure she will. Oscar agrees with me? Amazing.

Best Actor--Morgan Freeman, "Driving Miss Daisy;" Daniel Day Lewis, "My Left foot;" and Robin Williams, "Dead Poets Society." This is a tough one--everybody is deserving, so it's going to be a process of elimination. Robin Williams hasn't earned enough respect yet, and Daniel Day Lewis' character was too unlikable. That leaves Branagh, Cruise and Freeman. I would be in heaven if Branagh won, but hype once again dictates that Cruise and Freeman will fight it out. Of the two, Freeman is my choice-- but Tommy is so adorable and he's maturing so nicely too.

Best Picture--"Born on the Fourth of July," "Dead Poets Society," "Driving Miss Daisy," "Field of Dreams" and "My Left foot." "Driving Miss Daisy" is my pick, a pleasant dream I didn't want to end. However, the hellish power of "Born on the Fourth of July" should reign supreme.

In other categories, I am pleased to see that "The Adventures of Baron Von Munchausen," an extravagant fantasy that Columbia Pictures abandoned, received four nominations as did James Cameron's "The Abyss."

I am disappointed, however, that "Glory" was shut out of all but one of the major categories and "Dad" was only nominated for best makeup.

Also ignored were Shirley MacLaine, Jack Lemmon, Matthew Broderick, Alan Alda and Jason Robards.

I guess there's just no pleasing some people.

Lemon Grove Lutheran announces Lenten services

Lenten services at Lemon Grove Lutheran Church, 2055 Skyline, Lemon Grove, are scheduled to begin on Feb. 28, Ash Wednesday, with two services: one at 1 p.m. for seniors and one at 7:30 p.m. for all others. Each service will offer communion, a message, and special music.

Rev. E.J. Volkmann, pastor of the church, will use the theme "Seriously Now..." for the eight-service series beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Sermon topics for each service are as follows:

February 28th	"A Time to remember"
March 7th	"A Time to Listen"
March 14th	"A Time to Wake Up"
March 21st	"A Time to Choose"
March 28th	"A Time to Carry"
April 4th	"A Time to 'Say No"
April 12th Maundy Thursday	"Your Bridge Now" at 1 & 7:30 p.m.
April 13th Good Friday	Tenebrae Service.

Two celebratory services will mark Easter, April 15th: a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. focusing on "Easter Glory" and a festival worship at 9 a.m. promising "You Can Live Forever...Beginning Now!"

Pastor Volkmann welcomes members, friends, and those who have no regular church home to "attend and worship with us during these especially meaningful weeks in the life of all people." He suggested that readers clip this article and carry it as a reminder to avoid missing any of the services.

Lemon Grove Lutheran members elect 1990 leaders

Officers and committee chairs were recently elected by members of Lemon Grove Lutheran Church for 1990 and installed at a Sunday service.

They are Stewart Barnard, president; Steve McBride, vice president; Alice Vaughn, secretary; David B. Chell, treasurer; Carol Olsen, financial secretary; Ray Granstedt, stewardship; Doug Roberts, business and finance; Madeline Botz, worship and music; Lee Hintz, parish education; June M. Mott, public relations; Dorolyn Hilton, aid and hospitality; Dick Olsen, property and grounds; and Bob Huff, pastoral support.

These people make up the Church Council which administers all the business of the local church. They will serve for one year in these offices.

Lemon Grove PTA units name Honorary Service Award winners

Gasps of surprise and disbelief were heard on Thursday evening February 8, 1990 at the Lemon Grove Middle School Auditorium as this year's recipients of the Honorary Service Award were announced. (The names are not made public until the Founder's Day Awards Program when they are introduced.)

The combined PTA units of the Lemon Grove School District recognize individuals every year from each of the district's schools for their outstanding contributions to youth. The service a person is recognized for may be over a long period of time and include a broad variety of activities such as: school volunteer work, church involvement, youth sports activity, Boy and Girl Scout volunteer work, and other contributions of time and effort. But in all cases, these people have "gone the extra mile" to benefit youth in our Lemon Grove community.

From: Lemon Grove Middle School: Gloria Campbell, Carol McCarthy. Golden Avenue School: Patricia Cantu, Becky Pryatel, Peggy Roche. Mt. Vernon School: Linda Rees, Mary Brooks. San Miguel School: Dorothy Stanglewicz, Barbara Groner. Vista La Mesa School: Wilma Costello, Florence Hansen, Officer Raul Garcia. San Altos School: Ruth Schrum "Grandma Ruth". Monterey Heights School: Merlene Wilson, Linda Helsing, Chris Orahood, Palm Middle School: Paula Harcos.

Congratulations to all the Lemon Grove honorees and to the many others who devote time and energy to give our schools and community a lift. It's people that make a difference!

Present for the 1990 Honorary Service Awards were Asst. Sup. Dr. Joseph Farley, Asst. Sup Carolyn Hackett, PTA officers and members, School Principals, Lemon Grove Council Officers and staff members from each school along with family. Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Dan Heiserman.

Divorce recovery workshop offered

by Tim Boice

"We kind of ignore divorce, particularly in the church, we've kind of stuck our head in the sand and we don't want to admit that divorce is happening in the church. But really there are an awful lot of single adults affected by divorce coming to our churches," says Faith Chapel's Single Adult Minister, Jim Barrier.

"The real vision and desire of single adult ministry here at our church is to help reintegrate them into the mainstream flow of church life. We've had this model of the happily married 'Ozzie and Harriet family' coming to church."

Faith Chapel is offering a Divorce Recovery Workshop Saturday, March 17th from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The cost of the workshop is $15 and includes handout materials and lectures from local divorce counselors-Gordon Bear of Counseling Ministries in La Mesa and Eddie Mays. Lunch is included. Financial aid is provided by the church through scholarships. For more information about registration contact Faith Chapel at 461-7451.

Barrier says, "We are providing this as a community service. It's not just for church people."

He cited national statistics on divorce as a primary reason for the workshop. There will be over one million divorces nationwide this year, 60 percent of second marriages end in divorce, and by the year 2000 divorce will be the predominant outcome of marriage. Barrier concluded that these national figures increase in Southern California.

"Less than six percent of families have the father working while the mother stays home with kids. We're living an illusion. We want to wake up a bit and realize there's some people hurting out here. I haven't met anybody in my life who has been divorced who takes it just smoothly, so divorce recovery is there because the need is there," he said.

Some of the topics at the workshop will be dealing with your ex-spouse, the grief cycle, and fellowship in the church, a two-way street. Group discussions will deal with individual topics.

The workshop will be followed up by a four-week voluntary group discussion session at the church for those participants who wish to continue.

Families sought to provide respite care for special children

The Childcare Resource Service, a department of the YMCA, is looking for quality Family Day Care providers who can offer respite to special needs families. These families have children who are either at risk or have developmental disabilities and need a period of "relief".

The disabled child may also benefit from a change in their routine or environment. To meet their need, a special service called "respite care" has been developed.

A free orientation offering information on "How To Become a Child Care Respite Provider," will be held in El Cajon, at Professional Medical Supply, 700 N, Marshall Ave. on February 24th. For more information call the Special Needs Unit of the Childcare Resource Service at 275-7000.
